Storyline

Once the Earth was lush and green,

Once the Earth was lush and green,
But people's waste made it unclean.

Thankfully, some folks did learn,
To compost waste and let it churn.

Their food scraps and yard debris,
Turned to soil, so rich and free.
New life sprouted, the Earth was glad,
As people composted, it was less sad.

So let's all do our part today,
And compost our waste in every way.
For a happy Earth that's full of cheer,
Let's compost our waste
throughout the year!

Let's Compost!

Sorting Game

SORT
