

The Innocent River

Mada Adhit

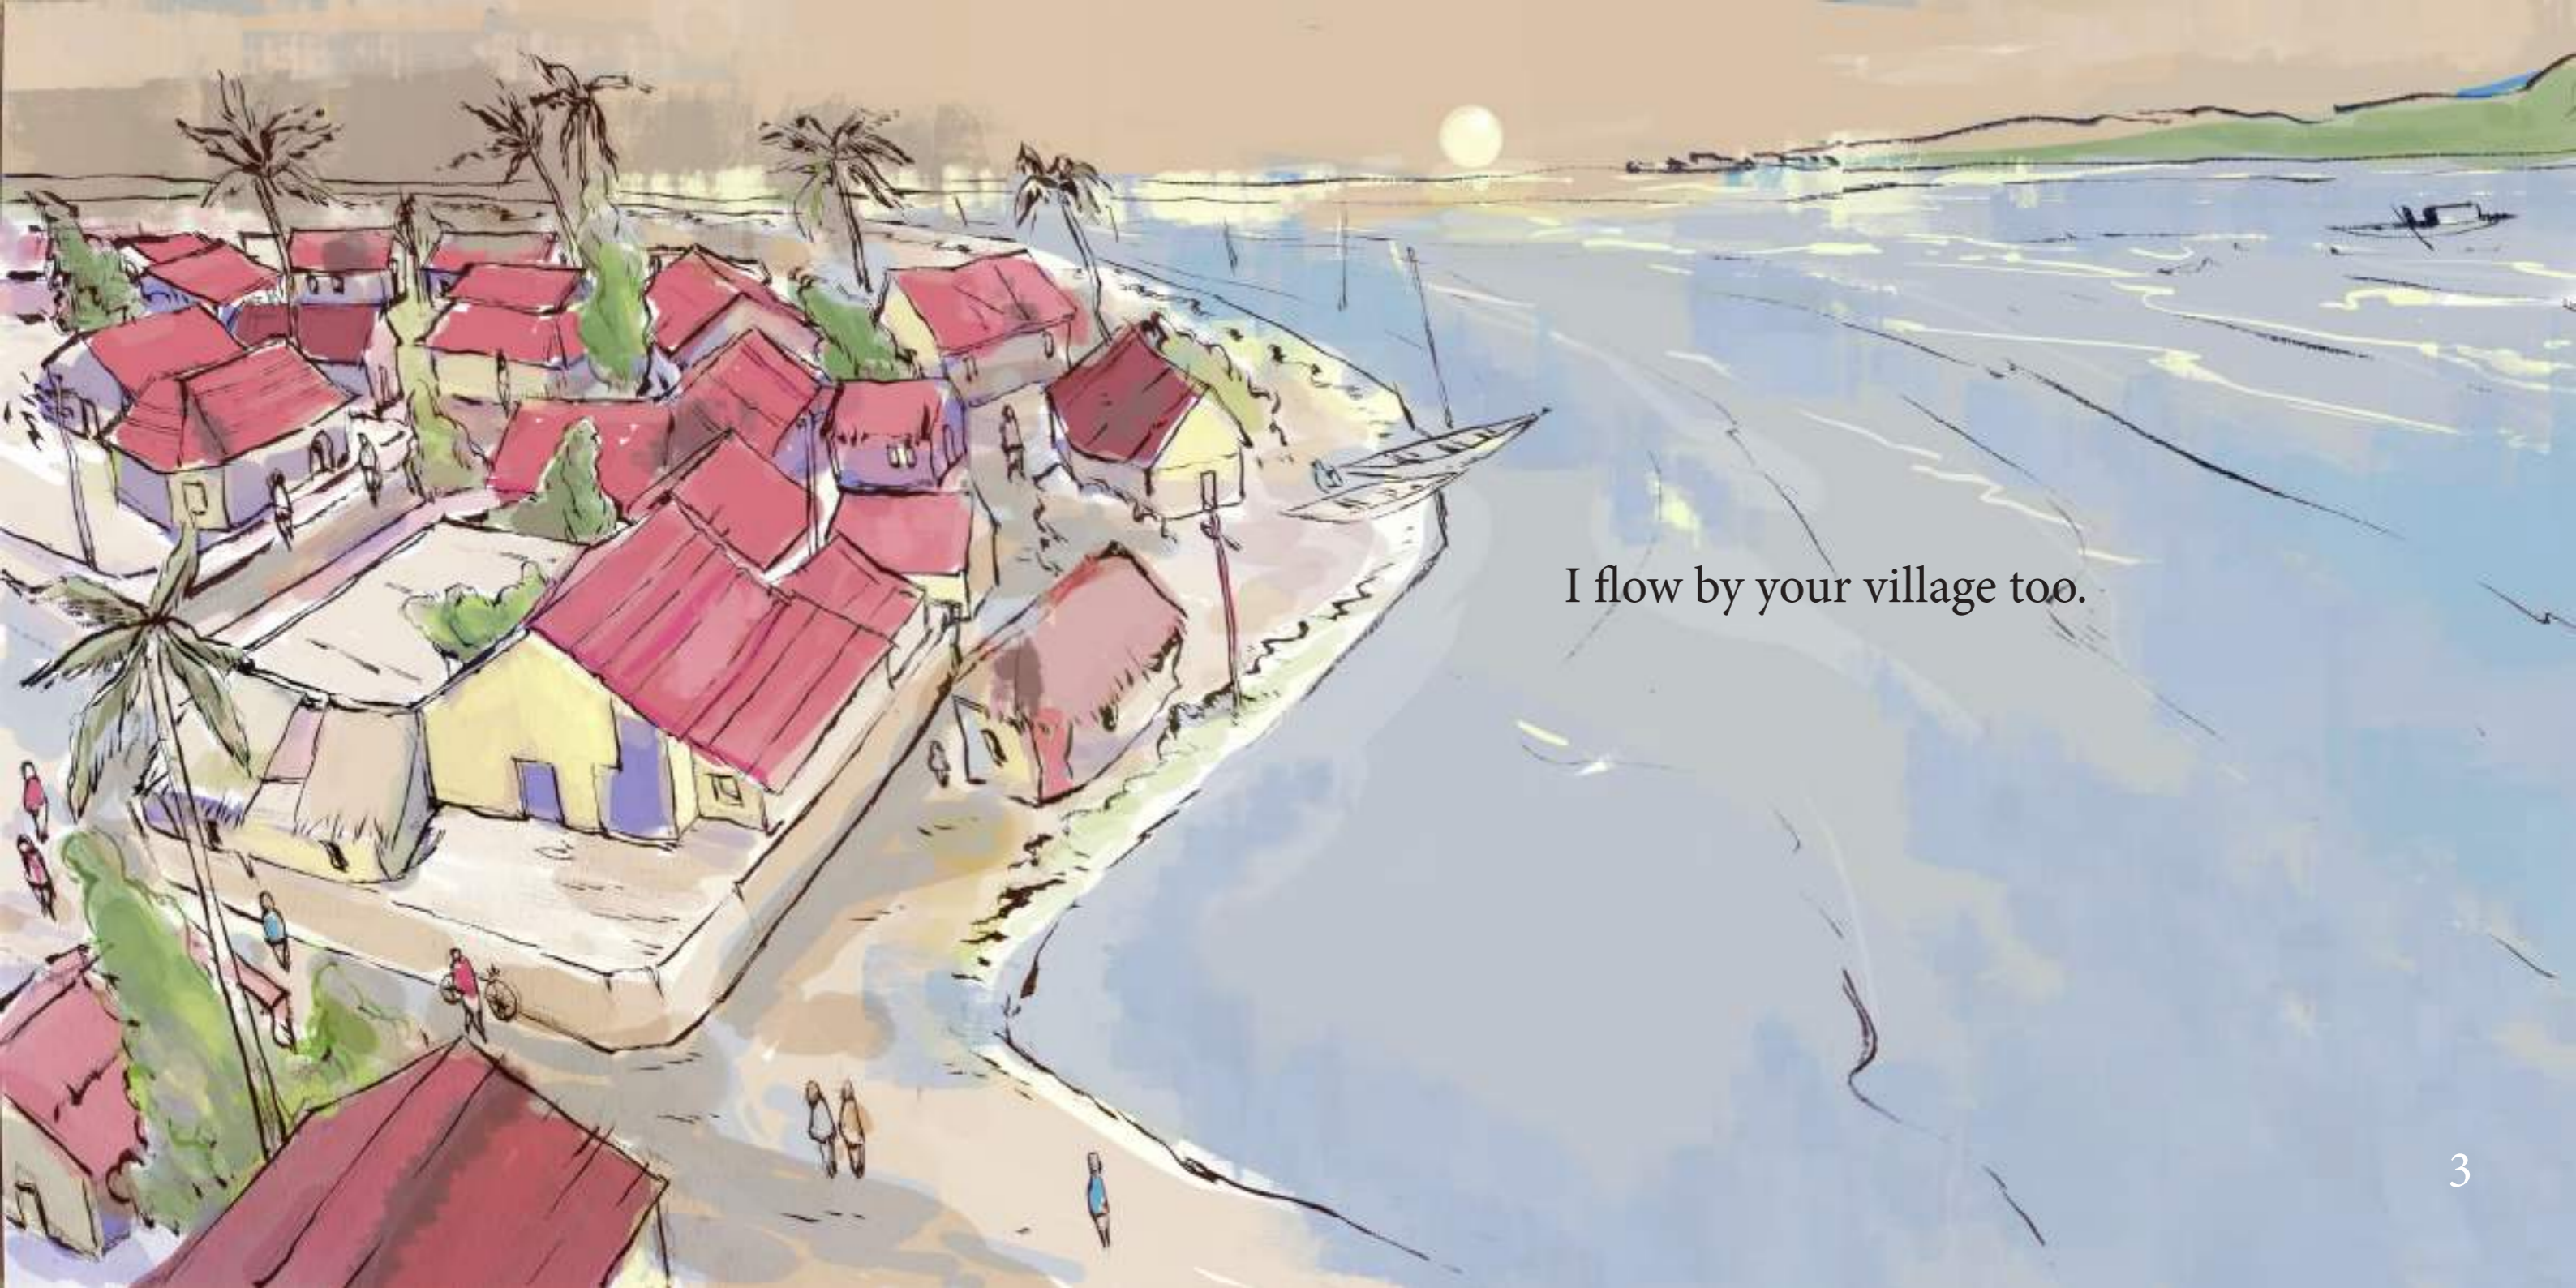

A watercolor illustration of a small orange boat with a single oar on a blue body of water. The water is depicted with wavy, layered patterns in various shades of blue and green, creating a sense of movement and depth. The boat is positioned in the lower right quadrant of the frame. The overall style is soft and artistic, typical of watercolor painting.

This is my story.

A

I have travelled great distances to meet you all.

I flow by your village too.

The people of your village celebrate me.

As a part of their tradition
they believe in immersion.

Oh my child!
your tradition is good but dont make me swallow poison!

If u go on this way
there will be so much ~ sickness,

loss,

suffering

Its not a dream!
Wake up my child!

I am not meant to swallow poison.

It is you who can make them understand,
Spread the word.

The message was loud and clear.

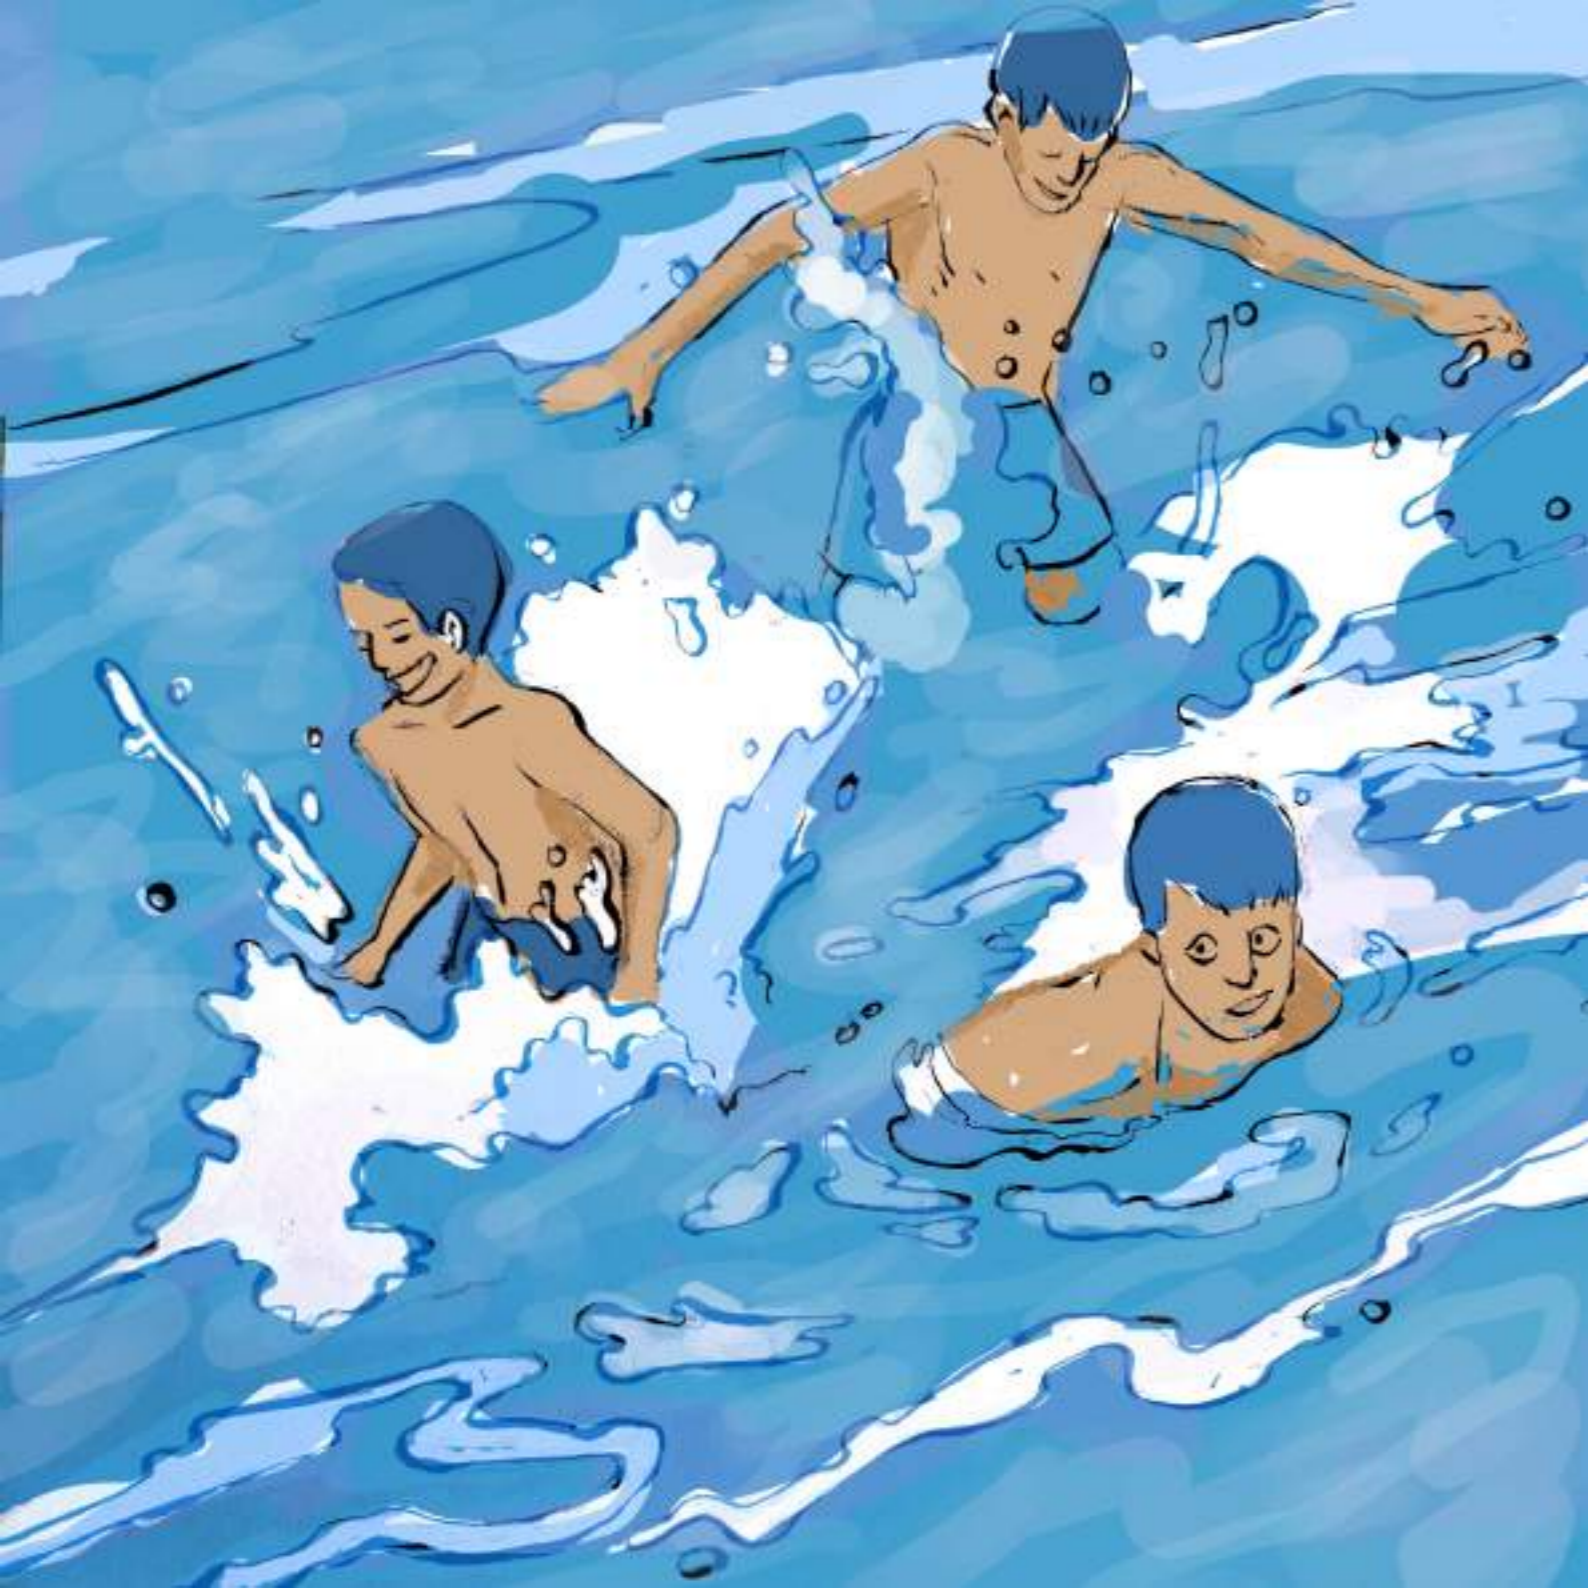

Give to me only your love, not your chemicals.

Let us flow together in harmony!

Acknowledgements & Credits

I would like to thank Mr. Suman Chowdhury, my guide and mentor throughout this project, his valuable inputs and suggestions helped bring this project to life .
My parents for constant support and motivation,
My friends for cheering me on.

© 2022

Illustrations by Mada Adhit Communication Design ,
National Institute of Design, Assam
Text by Purna Vij

